THE FOOT-AND-MOUTH SITUATIONVeterinary Forces Hold Foot-and-Mouth Disease in Check

(Statement issued October 23)

Reports to the U. S. Department of Agriculture from Dr. Marion Imes, in charge of the State and Federal forces engaged in eradicating foot-and-mouth disease from southeastern Texas, show the effectiveness of control measures. Although nearly a month has passed since the announcement on September 27, of the outbreak, the infection has not spread from the area originally mapped out as dangerous territory. The last infected herd was found by veterinary inspectors October 15 and was slaughtered and buried the same day. The toll of the disease thus far has been limited to 6 herds containing about 2,700 animals, and in addition about 4,600 stray cattle rounded up from exposed pastures.

Doctor Imes reports that extraordinary precautions are being taken to guard the quarantined area. The veterinarians engaged in suppressing the disease are making a thorough search of the large quarantined area for stray animals. Part of the country is wooded and swampy, but the inspectors selected for the work are accustomed to all kinds of field conditions. Public officials, railroad companies, stockmen, and the public are giving wholehearted cooperation, and the presence of Texas rangers is reported to have a wholesome influence in obtaining compliance with the necessary regulations.

While a large number of States have promulgated regulations prohibiting entry of livestock and other specified commodities from Texas, the regulations are more reasonable and more in accordance with carefully drafted Federal restrictions than those promulgated during the California outbreak. Great Britain, which imposed restrictions on importations of livestock and animal products from the United States when the Texas outbreak was reported, has modified her regulations. Those in force now restrict, chiefly, import shipments originating in the Western and Southwestern States.

California Practically Free of Foot-and-Mouth Disease Menace

(Statement issued October 24)

With the passing of two months since the occurrence of any further outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in California, save one small flare-up, the U. S. Department of Agriculture considers the disease in that State practically suppressed. That flare-up involved five small herds, all in the same locality in Tuolumne County. This slight recurrence is attributed to infection picked up in the Stanislaus National Forest while the animals were being trailed to their home ranches. The forest now contains no livestock except a few strays, and these are being rounded up and shot. The carcasses are disposed of by approved methods.

No infection of any kind has been found since October 9, but the inspection forces will continue making the necessary tests for the protection of the livestock industry of the State and the Nation.

UNITED STATES TO HAVE AGRICULTURAL COMMISSIONER AT MEXICO CITY

(Statement issued October 24)

Dr. S. O. Fladness, of the Bureau of Animal Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture, left Washington on October 24 for Mexico City, to take up, on November 1, his duties as agricultural commissioner representing the department. His headquarters will be at the American consulate.

Arrangements for attaching an agricultural commissioner to the consulate in Mexico were made through the State Department, and United States officials believe that the personal contact thus made possible will be of benefit to both countries.

The duties of Doctor Fladness will consist largely in conferring with Mexican authorities concerning livestock diseases and quarantine regulations in an endeavor to secure uniformity in the regulations of the two countries. He will perform other duties for various branches of the department, including activities of an economic character. His varied experience in livestock and other agricultural work makes him well fitted to fill this new office. At one time he represented the department in South America as a livestock specialist, has served two years in the Packers and Stockyards Administration, and has had much experience in meat inspection and livestock-sanitary work.

As agricultural commissioner to Mexico the duties of Doctor Fladness will be to represent the department in all matters pertaining to agriculture, in which the two countries are jointly interested.

37. Rules governing per diem allowance.—Per diem allowance in lieu of subsistence will be subject to the following rules:

(a) Each day of 24 hours will be considered as beginning at midnight. Per diem allowance for any day in which the employee is in a subsistence status less than 24 hours must be fixed separately and at a rate not to exceed $1 if the subsistence status period is 6 hours or less, $2 if more than 6 hours and not more than 12 hours, $3 if more than 12 hours and not more than 18 hours, and $4 if more than 18 hours. These special rates will apply to travel status periods of less than a day occurring at the beginning or end of a continuous trip of more than one day. For trips of less than a day actual expenses only will be allowed.

The change consists in establishing the actual expense basis exclusively for absences of less than 24 hours from post of duty. Decisions of the Comptroller General, 3 Comp. Gen. 598 and 966, lay down a rule which may be summarized by quoting from the syllabus of the latter: "Where an immigrant inspector * * * is temporarily absent from his official station while operating in adjacent territory for short periods under conditions which would not ordinarily interfere with his domestic arrangements for obtaining the usual subsistence, he can not be regarded as in a travel status for the purpose of payment to him of a per diem, or any fractional parts of a per diem, in lieu of subsistence." There is difficulty in determining from these decisions the state of facts which would warrant payment of the per diem and those under which payment would not be permissible. For instance, one of the per diem charges considered and held disallowable in the latter decision was based upon departure by automobile from official station at 5.30 a. m. with return at 1.00 p. m. on the same day. It has been deemed simpler therefore to prescribe the actual expense basis in all cases where the absence from official station falls short of a day.

Tips in Georgia

Subparagraphs (c), (f), and (h) of paragraph 33 of the Fiscal Regulations of the department are hereby amended by elimination of Georgia from the States enumerated in said subparagraphs in which State laws forbid the payment of train, station, and hotel porters' fees and fees to waiters.

IMPORTATION OF HAY AND STRAW PACKING MATERIALS

The attention of bureau inspectors engaged in supervising the importation and disposal of import hay and straw packing materials and various feeding materials for livestock is directed to the following Declaration No. 1 of the Acting Secretary of Agriculture:

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY
WASHINGTON, D. C.

Declaration No. 1

October 29, 1924.

The Secretary of Agriculture having so determined, it is hereby declared that Norway, Sweden, Ireland, and the Channel Islands, Australia, New Zealand, Japan, Guam, the Union of South Africa, Canada, Mexico, and the islands of the West Indies with the exception of Jamaica are free from foot-and-mouth disease and rinderpest.

This declaration is made in accordance with section 2, Regulation 11 of the regulations governing the sanitary handling and control of hides, fleshings, hide cuttings, parings, and glue stock, sheepskins and goatskins and parts thereof, hair, wool, and other animal by-products, hay, straw, forage, or similar material offered for entry into the United States (B. A. I. Order 286).

C. F. MARTIN,
Acting Secretary of Agriculture.

CALENDARS FOR 1925

Officers in charge and individuals reporting direct to Washington will please indicate in their stores requisitions for December 1 orders for the wall calendars they will require for the year 1925. One wall calendar should be sufficient for each room occupied as office or laboratory, and orders should be for a minimum number.

The bureau has discontinued the purchase of desk calendar pads and stands for field stations. However, stations now equipped with such stands may procure pads for the same for 1925 by ordering on their stores requisitions for December 1 the number required, indicating the make of the stand for which intended—that is, whether Gem, Handy, Daily, etc. These calendars and pads may not be forwarded with the other supplies ordered on such requisitions, but an effort will be made to get them to the stations before the first of the new year.

In this connection attention is called to the notice headed "Advertising matter not allowed in Government offices," in Service and Regulatory Announcements for November, 1915, page 127.
